Wrolstad Explains Budget, Notes Endowment Increase

ENDOWMENT FURNISHES a larger percentage and student fees provide a smaller percentage of Lawrence university's educational income over the last two years it has been announced by Marwin O. Wrolstad, business manager.

AT THE same time, there has been a significant percentage increase in income spent on classroom instruction.

Most budget categories have shifted only one or two per cent in the past two years, but endowment income, which in 1963-64 provided 13.41% of the educational budget, has risen most sharply to 22.39%.

This reflects the addition of the $13 million Downer endowment at the time of the merger with Milwaukee-Downer which created Lawrence university.

STUDENT fees are furnishing a slightly smaller portion of the budget than they were two years ago. In 1963-64, fees accounted for 65.69% of the educational budget; this year they provide 62.54%.

Looking at the entire Lawrence budget, however, which includes such auxiliary enterprises as the operation of dormitories and the student union, the student now pays only 48.3% of the amount expended on his behalf for educational purposes. Two years ago he paid 50.1%.

Two years ago, the percentage of the budget spent on classroom instruction was 45.35. This year it is 51.21%. Most other categories in the expense budget have been deliberately pared.

THE educational and student aid budget has risen from $2,433,170 in 1963-64 to $3,178,195 in 1965-66. The total budget, including the auxiliary enterprises, has risen from $3,304,000 in 1963-64 to $4,118,000 in 1965-66.

Here is a breakdown of income for the educational and student aid budget (exclusive of auxiliary enterprises) with the 1963-64 percentages listed first and the 1965-66 percentages second in every case:

Student fees, from 65.69% to 62.54%; government, from 2.19% to 1.73%; endowment, from 13.41% to 22.39%; gifts and grants, from 8.44% to 6.82%; organized activities, from 1.43% to .6%; other sources, from 4.53% to 2.1%; other sources, from 4.53% to 2.1%; and student aid, from 4.31% to 3.82%.

A PERCENTAGE breakdown for expenses paid from the educational and student aid budget, for the same years, is:

Administration and general, from 9.45% to 9.09%; student services, from 6.84% to 6.16%; public services and information, from 5.64% to 3.93%; instruction, from 45.43% to 51.21%; library, from 4.07% to 4.54%; organized activities, from 2.6% to 2.41%; research, from 2.52% to 2.2%; plant operation, from 10.93% to 9.49%; and student aid, from 12.61% to 10.97%.

Lawrence Winter Theatre Sets 'Reynard,' 'Ruddigore'

"REYNARD THE FOX" by Arthur Fauquez and "Ruddigore" by Gilbert and Sullivan, will be the first two productions at the Music-Drama center next term. "Reynard" will be presented in the experimental theatre at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 14 and 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 15. "Ruddigore" will be presented in the experimental theatre Thursday through Saturday evenings, Jan. 27-29.

"REYNARD," which will be directed by Marti Virtue, can be described as a children's play, but its satiric and witty comments on the hypocrisy of those who would judge others makes it equally entertaining and enjoyable for adult audiences.

Bill Phillips, who played Raim in this term's production of "The Queen and the Rebels," takes the title role in the production of "Reynard."

Other members in the cast are Tiecelein, the Crow, Dennis Watson; Reverend Epinar, the Hedgehog, Ron Broomell; Brun, the Bear, Candy Wager; Ysengrin, the Wolf, Mark Leonas; Noble, the Lion, Jim Fry; and Lendore, the Marmot, Thrish Lemly.

"RUDDIGORE" will be directed by John Koopman assistant professor of music. This comic opera with words by Gilbert and music by Sullivan is a hilarious saga of ghosts and bad baronets.

Koopman has announced the following cast: Sir Ruthven Murgatroyd, Kort Ploshay; Richard Dauntless, John French; Sir Despard Murgatroyd, Tom Eastman; Old Adam Goodheart, Kit Cone; Rose Maybud, Sheila Pernot; Mad Margaret, Alice Haselden; Dame Hannah, Rebecca Johnson; Zorah, Karen Hicks; Ruth, Susan Gillerman; and Sir Roderic Murgatroyd, James Stiles.

Mary Beldo and Kathi Link will provide the musical accompaniment for the production.

Library Announces Rules For Vacation

Because of difficulties caused by students from other colleges using our library facilities during Thanksgiving vacation, the following will go into effect during the Christmas vacation period:

There will be no circulation of library materials to anyone other than Lawrence faculty and students.

Lawrence students will be required to show their activity card in order to withdraw books during the Christmas holidays only.

Mayer Holds Tryout For 'Trojan Women'

Tryouts for the winter term play "The Trojan Women," directed by Dr. David Mayer III, will be held from 2:30-5:10 p.m. Friday, Dec. 3; 1:30-4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4; and 2:30-5:10 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 6 and 7.

Both actors and dancers are needed. Those wishing to try out should sign up for a convenient time on the bulletin board outside the experimental theatre; scripts are on reserve in the library.

AFROTC Will Visit Ohio Air Museum

On December 4 and 5, 18 cadets of the 935th AFROTC detachment will visit the Wright-Patterson Air Force base in Dayton, Ohio.

They will leave Winnebago airport in an Air Force plane for the base in Dayton, Ohio.

They will fly back on Sunday. At Wright-Patterson, the cadets will get a chance to visit the Air museum.

This is the first of several trips planned for the year. The purpose of the trip is to give the cadets a chance to see what the Air Force is like by letting them see and talk to the Air Force people at work.

Choruses to Present Christmas Concert

The Lawrence Women's and Men's Choruses, led by conductors Mari Taniguchi and Dan C. Sparks, will present their traditional pre-Christmas concert at 2:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 10 in Harper hall.

Their program focuses on music for the Christmas season and features a performance of the Benjamin Britten "Te Deum."

Other works are taken from the traditional carol repertory, from Chilean folk music, and from the pen of American composer Ulysses Kay.

The program includes several instrumental presentations.

LWA To Sponsor Christmas Caroling

Lantern night, a former Downer tradition, will begin at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 8, with the singing of Christmas carols outside faculty homes.

Caroling which is sponsored by LWA will be limited to women only. Each caroler will carry a lantern with a lighted candle. All women are welcome to participate.

There will be a waissail hour sponsored by the Union Committee, LWA, and Mortar Board, which will be held at 8 p.m. in the Viking room of the union following the caroling.

Ben R. Schneider, associate professor of English will read selections of Christmas works. The waissail hour will be informal and will be open to all who would like to come.

WLFM Programs To Include Lectures

WLFM will broadcast five freshman studies lectures, one each night at 9:30 p.m. of the coming week starting Monday. For a full schedule see the WLFM program listings on page 3.

Sunday at 1:45 p.m. Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra" will be presented. In addition five BBC specials on Shakespeare, one each to follow the freshman studies lectures, will be aired.

RECITAL POSTPONED

The senior piano recital of Andrea Schwellinger, scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 9, has been postponed. Details will be announced at a later date.

Colman Hall Wins Dorm Sing Prize

Colman hall won first place in the annual after-hours sing held Wednesday night, Nov. 17, with their own rendition of the "Hallelujah Chorus" from the Messiah. The prize was a free late permission.

Washington house received second place and a plaque for their song of "Washington House" sung to, among other things, the tune of "Beethoven's Fifth."

Eight groups, including the counselors, performed in the LWA sponsored event. The judges were Miss Heinecke, Mrs. Below and Mrs. Stowe.

Record Percentage Joins Peace Corps

Lawrence university's 23 alumni in the Peace Corps places the institution in a high participating rating according to Frederick Madison, director of the midwest region's office of public affairs.

Lawrence's 23 volunteers in proportion to an enrollment of 1300 gives it a 1.8 per cent ratio per 1000 students.

"For all colleges of over 200 students," Madison stated, "two per cent is considered outstanding participation, and one per cent represents an active Peace Corps-oriented school."

"Most large universities and state colleges average between 0.1 and 1.0 per cent; private liberal arts colleges average from 0.5 to 2.0 per cent. So Lawrence with 1.8 is decidedly in the higher grouping."

"Some figures for small Wisconsin colleges are: Alverno, 0.8; Beloit, 2.8, Carroll 1.2; Milton 1.1; St. Norbert, 1.0; Carthage, 0.8; Ripon, 0.6. St. Francis College has only one volunteer, but an enrollment of 40 gives them a ratio of 2.5," he pointed out.

The national leaders in Peace Corps participation are Swarthmore college with 4.5 and Carleton college with 4.3.

Among the large institutions, Madison said, "Berkeley's 550 volunteers represent 2.0 per cent of the listed enrollment. Second in absolute numbers is the University of Wisconsin at Madison with 295 and a ratio of 1.1 per cent."

Honor Council Gives Report Including Summary of Cases

THE HONOR COUNCIL attempting to give Lawrentians a better understanding of the honor system reports on its activities for the school year '64-'65 and for the first term of this year. Although the members of the Lawrence community are aware of their responsibilities in supporting the honor system, the council feels they should be presented with a more complete knowledge of the operations of the system.

Discovery of inadequate knowledge of the honor system within the class of '68 prompted the Honor council to undertake a more thorough method of indoctrination of new students this fall.

During New Student week, the chairman of the council, Hugh Nellans, addressed the entire freshman class at a meeting in which he explained and discussed both the all-school Judicial board and the honor system.

BESIDES this effort, the council asked all faculty members to explain particular applications of the honor code in their specific courses to both freshmen and upperclassmen.

In this way, the council hopes that the freshmen will come to understand and appreciate the honor system while the upperclassmen will reconsider their personal obligations to support the honor system.

Beyond the necessity of informing new students and arousing the established, the council must deal with infractions of the honor code. Essentially, an infraction of the code consists of an attempt to represent the work of another as one's own.

THIS is applicable to all written work and examination situations. The honor system is not designed to coerce students to comply with regulations but is designed to accept for admittance only those students who realize the possibilities for valid scholarships under the system.

Because of this intention, the Honor council does not publicize infractions of the honor code which come to its attention. To publicize the prosecution of a violator would appear as an attempt to instill fear of being caught in the students.

This fear could only lead to an undesirable negative support of the honor system. The students do, however, have a right to know what cases the Honor council handles.

Informing the faculty and students of the council's activity while refraining from exposing individuals needlessly, the following summary of cases is presented.

TERM I ('64)

DURING THE first term of '64 a student was failed in a course in which a faculty member brought a suspected case of plagiarism to the attention of the Honor council.

TERM II ('65)

DURING THE second term four cases were handled. In each case, a faculty member contacted the Honor council as the result of suspected plagiarism by the student involved.

Because of variations in evidence and circumstances, the penalties during this term ranged from dismissal of the case through failure on the piece of work involved, to failure in the course and suspension for the following term, and finally to suspension of all credit for the term in which the violation occurred and suspension for the following term.

TERM III ('65)

TWO CASES were handled during the third term; both involved plagiarism in papers. One case was reported by a faculty member and the other by students.

The decisions in these cases resulted in failure in the course and suspension for the following term for one student and failure in the course for the other student.

TERM I ('65)

THIS FALL, two student-reported violations have come to the attention of the Honor council. One case was dismissed because of insufficient evidence, the other case is pending.

THE Honor council presents these sketch resumes for the purpose of informing the faculty and students of the activities of the Honor council as a judicial body.

The accounts are necessarily general in order to avoid incrimination of individual students as well as to avoid the tendency toward negative sanctioning of the honor system.

The Honor council hopes this review of its activities over the course of the past year will both inform the members of the Lawrence community of its activities and stimulate them to maintain their awareness to the effectiveness and benefits of the honor system.

The members of the council are Hugh Nellans, chairman; Sue Zimmerman, Anna Mack, Dave Glidden, Steve Rosenfield, Greg Wille, Nancy Nye and Jim Kauffman.

Teach-Out: Literature Course In 'Coffee House University'

By ALLAN MANN

LOS ANGELES (CPS)—The Free University of California, the newest college in Los Angeles, opened its doors on Oct. 21. It has but one teacher and one class. The teacher is Lawrence Lipton, author of "The Holy Barbarians" and the "Erotic Revolution." The class is in west coast avant-garde literature, the course Lipton was to have taught in the UCLA extension this fall.

But the course, the same one he taught in the fall of 1964, was not approved by the UCLA Academic Senate's committee on courses this year. Lipton has charged that the refusal was the result of "right-wing pressure," and has formed the "free university."

The "university" class is being taught weekly at the Ash Grove, a Hollywood coffee house.

ACCORDING to Lipton, the course is an attempt at "re-integration of the arts in a workshop manner."

He plans to combine the literary forms of poetry, prose and theatre with the musical art form and films.

In the large, dimly lit, barn-like atmosphere of the Ash Grove where Lipton conducts what he calls his "teach-out," he explained why UCLA refused to let him teach the course: "The real reason was, I later learned, that they (the extension officials) thought I was organizing a sex orgy."

In outlining the activities of his class, Lipton said that jazz bands and trips to writers' homes will be included in the class as well as three "happenings" run entirely by the students.

"The Free University of California will be run entirely by the students," Lipton said. "They will decide what courses will be taught and what teachers will teach them. And they will be responsible for all administrative matters."

Freshman Forum Discusses Noise Problem, Television

IMPROVEMENTS for Brokaw hall were the major topic at the last meeting of Freshman Forum, the council of Plantz and Brokaw freshman section representatives, on Monday, November 29. Discussion centered around the noise problems of Brokaw, as well as the chances of getting a television for the dorm.

Dave Shlaes, a Brokaw representative, reported the results of his conference with the college business manager, Marwin O. Wroldstad, on Wednesday, November 17.

Wroldstad explained the money for improvements comes from a common dorm fund. Over the past six years, money invested in Brokaw has been toward a sprinkler system, redecoration of the downstairs lounge, and repainting over half the rooms.

ANY surplus from the dorm fund in the last four years, he said, has gone into Trever and Plantz, along with Federal loans and gifts to the school.

When confronted with the complaint of excess noise in Brokaw, Wroldstad explained that he had never been approached on this problem before.

Carpeting, suggested as a possible soundproofing, has been discussed in the past, he said; insulation for the pipes, also mentioned as a sound deadener, will be investigated.

AFTER hearing the report, members of the forum voted to distribute petitions complaining about the noise and suggesting both the carpeting and the insulation in an official presentation to the administration. The petitions will be distributed in a short time.

Concerning a television for Brokaw, Bob Pepper, head counselor, explained that a vote would be necessary among the residents.

If the purchase were approved, each would be assessed about one dollar toward the price. The actual purchase would be made on a loan from the administration, and next year's dorm residents would help cover the price.

FINAL discussion concerned the open party to be given by the Freshman class on Saturday, December 11, at the Union, featuring a freshman rock and roll band, as well as folk music and dancing to the juke box. Finances for the entertainment and refreshments will come out of the class fund.

The Freshman Forum will meet again next Monday, December 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Viking room of the Union.

GENETICS FILM

The Science Film series will show a movie on genetics, "The Thread of Life," at 10:40 Thursday, Dec. 9, in room 161 Youngchild. It has been suggested that the film will be good review for freshman studies finals.

Group Plans Dorm, Visits St. Norbert's

The student group of the general Housing committee is in the process of gathering information for the planning of the new women's dormitory on campus.

On Thursday, Nov. 18, the group visited St. Norbert's College. Ruth Charlton, Dick Stujenske, Mark Saltzman, and Bob Pepper, accompanied by Mr. Winslow, Mrs. Gilbert, Dean Morton, Miss Trautwein and Dean Venderbush, looked at a new dorm for women at St. Norbert's as well as the Union there, which serves as the food center for the whole student body.

The committee is hoping to visit Carleton college and St. Olaf next term in order to obtain more ideas for the future Lawrence dormitory.

Colleges Evaluate Grades, Suggest Pass-Fail Systems

(CPS)—SHOULD Lawrence revise its grading system? If it does, the administration should consider the programs and results at other schools. The California Institute of Technology faculty voted to drop grades in freshman courses last fall.

THE Cal Tech faculty said this would make the transition between high school and college a smoother one for entering students. Freshman level courses are now evaluated on a pass-fail basis.

Cal Tech dean of freshmen Foster Strong said: "What we are doing dramatizes what we think students are here for. Ordinarily, students feel the pressure to try and get a B even though they are not interested in the course."

"This is not the way a scholar should feel. Adults who are successful don't work this way. We want to take off the artificial pressures and let these talented kids develop as they would like to develop."

COURSES are being conducted as before: there are the same assignments, quizzes and tests. Tests are graded numerically.

At the end of the course, numerical grades are used to determine whether the student passes or fails. Letter grades are neither given to the students nor kept by the professors.

The standard grading procedures are followed at Cal Tech in all courses beyond the freshman level.

ACCORDING to Strong the system is undergoing a two-year evaluation. The faculty will determine whether or not to continue the program at the end of this year.

At Carleton college in Northfield, Minn., upperclassmen may take courses in which they will receive a grade of either "pass" or "fail". No letter grades will be given in these courses.

San Jose State college in California is experimenting with a program in which selected freshmen will be allowed to study at their own speed without courses, tests, or grades.

THE educational program for these students, including physical education and 12 to 24 units of pre-major work, will consist of individual tutorial work, group discussion, and small seminars.

Grades are eventually assigned, but only at the end of the year. Each student's tutor evaluates his work and at the end of the year assigns a letter grade for the equivalent courses.

This is done so that the students in the project can be placed back into the normal grading system.

Students can choose any course outside of their major department in which they wish to be graded on the pass-fail system. They can only take one course under this system during a term and cannot take more than four during their undergraduate years.

because now you can complete Air Force ROTC in just half the time!

Are you interested in starting a military career while in college—but afraid it will cut too deeply into your schedule?

Well, here's good news for you. Air Force ROTC now offers a 2-year program. You can start it any time you have 2 years of higher education remaining—whether on the undergraduate or graduate level.

Here's another good thing about this program: you get a chance to "sample" Air Force life before you sign up. During a special summer orientation session, you get to make up your mind about the Air Force, and the Air Force gets to make up its mind about you. Only when both are satisfied are you finally enrolled in the program.

You'll learn a lot in Air Force ROTC. The curriculum has been completely revamped. The accent is on aerospace research and development. But of course the classes are only the beginning. The important thing is that you'll be taking the first big step toward a profession of great responsibility, as a leader on America's Aerospace Team.

From the President

Term of Discontent

By DAVE GLIDDEN and CARLA METTLING

STUDENTS have often wondered, perhaps more so this term than usual, what exactly the relationship between the students, the faculty and the administration should be and how much responsibility the student should be allowed within this community.

IN addition the Lawrentian has pointed out the issues of the Honors Dorm and Lawrence's proposed but not discussed foreign study program.

In an interview with President Curtis W. Tarr this week the Lawrentian questioned him on several of these topics.

QUESTION—Do you think there is a possibility in the future of giving athletic scholarships at Lawrence or at least financial preference to athletes?

ANSWER—"No, I doubt it." Generally Lawrence is trying to increase its scholarship endowment, and may in the future have a number of named scholarships that could have certain athletic criteria, similar to the Rhodes Scholarship.

QUESTION—What is the administration's policy on small houses, women's or men's?

ANSWER—All small houses will be eventually closed; they are only temporary dormitories. It is hoped that the construction of a new women's dormitory would enable small groups of students to live in separate units. Thus an "honors dorm" could be maintained within the larger dormitory.

QUESTION—You have stated that there should be uniform parietal rules at Lawrence. The Honors Dorm is necessarily a social institution as well as an intellectual one. Are these two ideas consistent? In other words, can one have uniform rules and yet maintain special groups of students?

ANSWER—"An atmosphere doesn't have to be permissive in a social sense to be stimulating in the academic sense." The same parietal rules must apply for everyone, though some groups may be their own enforcers. Remember that the administration must also deal with the parents of the students.

QUESTION—One vital question to the student body is How much freedom and responsibility can the student have at Lawrence? There are a number of areas where this problem arises. Here is an example: Do you think the students should have a liaison with the Committee on Instruction, to have a say in the question of the three-three plan, in the size of classes, in the type of classes offered, and in the quality of teaching received?

ANSWER—Student opinion is important. The problem is to find the appropriate mechanism for communication between faculty and students. It is unadvisable to have student representation on faculty committees, because it is hard enough getting discussion going when students aren't there. Their presence would only further stifle discussion. Also there would be unavoidable bias in the student representatives.

The issue of size of classes is entirely in the hands of the president. It is purely a matter of budget. There is only so much money for salaries, and much of this must go for annual raises. So, adding additional teachers is financially complex. In addition, the aim for a balanced university would be to have departments of fairly equivalent size — both for students and for faculty.

QUESTION—What has happened to Lawrence's proposed foreign study program?

ANSWER—The foreign study program is temporarily halted in committee.

QUESTION—What do you think the relationship should be between the students, the faculty, and the administration? Is the relation between these three that of three relatively autonomous bodies or that of a centralized administrative control overseeing the faculty and the students?

ANSWER—"The ideal at Lawrence is a community of scholars." There are some checks and balances, e. g., the faculty are hired (and fired) by the President and the Board of Trustees, and all changes in student social rules must be approved by the Board. However "the wisest" should have more authority in such a community of scholars.

One question remains on our mind—What's holding up the foreign study program?

College Student Magazine Backs U.S. Viet Nam Policy

PHILADELPHIA—A national magazine for leading college students this week declared its support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam and reported that a national sampling showed 80% of the "leading students" who read the magazine also in support of the government position.

Abandoning its usual non-political editorial policy, Moderator magazine defended the right and responsibility of students to demonstrate against government decisions, but said that "we believe, along with 80% of our readers, that the U.S. has no choice but to stick this one out."

Moderator polled 357 of its 30,000 male college readers who are selected for their academic and co-curricular leadership and got 533 responses within ten days of mailing.

THE U.S. policy was thought to be legally and morally right by 60.5% of the respondents; legally right but morally suspect by 21.1%; legally right but morally wrong, 5.3%; and both legally and morally wrong, 13.1%.

Support for the administration did not mean majority repudiation of the anti-war demonstrators. When asked if they felt that the student demonstrations served any useful purpose, 57% said "yes."

The reasons for support of the demonstrations varied widely: Dissenters are part of an honorable American tradition. They confront the hypocrisy of leaders, and of "consensus"; they provoke discussion and re-evaluation of policy; they show to other nations that democratic free expression is a reality in the U.S.; they answer to the observations of John Stuart Mills and Alexis de Tocqueville about the dangers of a tyranny of the majority.

MODERATOR'S editorial refuted charges that communists dominate the protest movement. The editorial, signed by editor J. Mark Lono, said:

"It has been said that the current peace movement is the result of communists prodding students into protesting the war. Let us hope not, for it would be harsh irony indeed if the patriotic duty of dissent would have to be taught us by the communists."

"No, students speak for themselves, and communists manage only to tag along conspicuously enough to distort the impact of legitimate American expression of opinion."

"THE REAL threat to democracy in this country," the editorial continued, "is not coming from communists, unfortunately, but from domestic witch hunters."

"It is coming from editorial writers and draft boards that call for the immediate drafting of protesters, and from legislatures who seek to remove their scholarships."

"In a democracy, governments do not conspire to punish students who freely and honestly express doubt or dissent. Public policy is dependent upon public opinion, not fearful of it."

IT WAS found by the Moderator poll that very few students—7.1% of the sample—can justify civil disobedience tactics such as draft card burning or troop train stopping. Commenting on this, Moderator said:

"Civil disobedience tactics often self-righteously stifle a dialogue with the majority rather than foster thoughtful discussion. Trying to stop shipments of men and material to Viet Nam strikes at an effect rather than a cause, and appears childish to all but the most confirmed pacifist."

"Burning draft cards dramatizes nothing but the protester's contempt for laws democratically derived, and therefore contempt for the democratic process they themselves must count on to sustain their effort."

IN explaining its support of the U.S. policy, the magazine claimed that "like the protesters and President Johnson, we want to negotiate our way out of Viet Nam, but we want negotiations to come from a position of strength."

"As long as North Viet Nam and ultimately Red China feel free to commit their excess populations to adventures of 'national liberation' like the one in South Viet Nam, then the U.S. has no alternative."

Although Moderator regularly polls its readership about matters of national concern, and includes political commentary in each of its six issues each school year, it usually confines its editorial statements to specifically educational issues.

EXPLAINING its departure from this policy, publisher Sherman B. Chickering said that, "this matter is too close to all of us, especially to those of us who may have to join the fight; it would have been irresponsible of us to avoid it editorially."

Cannon To Discuss Shakespeare Drama

Charles Cannon, professor of English at Coe college, will give a freshman studies lecture on Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra" at 10:40 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 7, in Stansbury theatre. Cannon teaches Renaissance drama.

Fox Cities Group To Give Concert

Lawrence Conservatory faculty clarinetist Dan C. Sparks, pianist Linda Bryan Sparks, and the Fox Cities String quartet will share in a program of chamber music to be given at 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 5, in Harper hall.

Their music includes the Quintet in B minor, Opus 115, by Brahms; Sonatina for Clarinet and Piano, by Malcolm Arnold; and Contrasts for Violin, Clarinet and Piano, by Bartok.

Chaney Will Lecture On Medieval Women

Dr. William A. Chaney, associate professor of history, will deliver the second lecture in this year's Fraternity Forum series at 8 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 5 in the Union lounge.

Chaney will discuss "Women in Medieval Society" in lurid detail. The IFC, sponsor of the forum, recommends this lecture for adults only.

The aim of the forum series is to promote closer relations between the faculty and students by providing an informal context in which Lawrence professors may speak on any topic they choose.

FILM CLASSICS

'Last Year at Marienbad'

THE LAST Film Classics presentation, "Last Year at Marienbad," apparently needs some discussion, if I am to judge by some of the comments I have heard, but since this is the last column of the term, let me first mention our two remaining films, "Sundays and Cybele" on December 5 and "Key Largo," our traditional pre-Christmas Bogart film, on December 12.

"Sundays and Cybele" is one of the better known foreign films of recent years, directed in France by Serge Bourgeois, and starring Nicole Courcel and Hardy Kruger.

Kruger, who may be remembered from "The One That Got Away" some years ago, plays a lonely young man who befriends a small girl abandoned by her father in a convent.

ON THE pretext of being her father, to bypass the nuns, Kruger pays periodic visits to the girl, Cybele, during her Sunday visiting hours: thus the title.

The two soon fall in love and the tragedy of their relationship makes one of the most moving films you may ever see.

Humphrey Bogart needs no introduction (I hope), nor should "Key Largo," which also stars Edward G. Robinson, Lauren Bacall, Lionel Barrymore, Claire Trevor, Leo G. Carroll, and was directed by John Huston from the play by Maxwell Anderson.

IT'S BOGEY at his anti-heroic best as an ex-army major trapped with a widow and assorted mobsters in a hotel on a tiny Florida key.

As a hurricane lashes the island, tensions mount, and Bogart on the side of the law pumps five bullets into Edward G. Robinson, the big, egotistical, vulgar gangster.

In a thrilling climax, the major is forced to pilot the mob to Cuba in a small boat. An Academy Award winner.

BUT TO "Marienbad." Rarely has there been a film of such real structural complexity approaching so closely the valuable tenets of basic film aesthetic.

Alain Resnais' "Last Year at Marienbad" must be considered a milestone in film, which may seem curious in light of the fact that his previous feature film "Hiroshima Mon Amour," was so wretched.

What is the film about? Its creators call it a "documentary about statues," and they have subtitled it "Persuasion." But we cannot divorce subject matter and structure: the man is trying to persuade the woman that they met and loved a year before in the same place.

SHE at first rejects the man's references to the past as she does not remember, and later through sequences of dream and memory she becomes convinced of its truth.

As an article in French News points out, "time and space, reality and imagination are interwoven in an attempt to reproduce the way in which our musings on the past and the future form an integral part of the present. The film is demanding upon the public because its very reality is upsetting."

Thus it will be remembered that on occasion the narration and the action on the screen are at odds with each other, the man's voice describing one action as the woman desperately pursues another: she fights against the persuasion.

SEVERAL viewpoints are also presented pictorially. It would seem to be the woman's impressions of the past when she herself appears virginal, dressed in white, and the man's recollection when she appears dressed in black more like a bird of prey.

When the love-making is perceived as rape it is obviously her viewpoint. There are also possible symbols galore in the guns and the big hotel itself (you can hunt out Freud as well as I).

But the film is not a puzzle to be solved; it must rest on its own merits as a film and an integral work of art. Well, if it becomes too baffling, there's always that match game to play.

Lawrence Grants $556,275 For Students' Financial Aid

This year Lawrence has granted $556,275 in financial aid to students. There is $308,380 granted in scholarships, $167,895 in federal loans, and $65,000 in part-time campus jobs.

According to Marshall B. Hulbert, vice-president and dean of the university, scholarship grants "are based on ability and need." The student applying for a scholarship fills out a college scholarship blank which is then computed by the College Scholarship service.

Ability criteria are "good grade averages, more importantly class rank, and college board scores." The Committee on Financial Assistance, consisting of the dean of men, the dean of women, the dean of the university, the business manager and the director of admissions, reviews the applications and determines the amount of money granted.

According to Hulbert, Lawrence has "a certain amount of money" for scholarships included in each year's budget.

"If we gave larger amounts to the more needy, less people would receive money." If more people receive scholarships, less money is available for individuals.

Since "some people move up, some down, some drop out," the total amount of money available fluctuates.

Scholarships are renewable if the student applies each year. The average amount granted this year was $682. The student usually receives a package deal consisting of a scholarship, loan and work contract.

In addition to Lawrence's scholarships the student may get scholarships from other places. Such scholarships may be set up by another college for faculty children. Association of University Women, AAUW, the American Legion and industrial companies are other sources.

If the student's grades aren't good enough he is still eligible for a federal loan. The only requirements for a National Defense Education Act loan are that the student be recommended and in good standing. The average loan this year is $458.

In addition Lawrence has some loan funds of its own. The only scholarships given which are not based on need are honorary ones of $100 given to entering freshmen.

According to Hulbert such a scholarship "shows the freshmen are able and that we are honoring them."

In this year's freshman class 33 per cent receive financial aid, 34 per cent of the women and 32 per cent of the men.

Basketball Team Opens Season, Competes With Carleton, St. Olaf

THE BASKETBALL team, dominated by underclassmen, opens Midwest Conference action this weekend with a pair of home games. Coach Clyde Rusk will send his cagers to the gymnasium floor against Carleton at 7:30 p.m. Friday. St. Olaf college invades Lawrence for a 1:30 p.m. contest this afternoon.

Rusk, opening his third season as head mentor for the Vikings, is more optimistic than ever. Although not blessed with a lot of height or experience, Rusk bases his optimism on a group of fine sophomores and better overall depth than he has had on the squad in the previous two campaigns.

THE TWO weekend foes should prove to be stiff tests for the Vikes. St. Olaf is one of the Midwest conference's three defending co-champions and Carleton is a pre-season pick by the coaches to be in the thick of the championship race.

Last season the Vikes posted a 7-11 record in conference play and finished with an 8-14 record overall.

Returning lettermen for Coach Rusk this season include Tom Steinmetz, senior, and the leading scorer on last season's squad. Steinmetz also ranked second in rebounds last season. He scored 362 points in 21 games, missing one tilt because of illness. Steinmetz averaged 17.2 points per game.

OTHER lettermen include Dick Schultz, junior guard, who ranked third in team scoring last season with 313 markers in the 22 games for a 14.2 average. Also returning are Mike O'Fallon and Jim Swanson.

O'Fallon scored 182 points last year as a sophomore while Swanson had 76 markers. Swanson also is a junior this season. O'Fallon at 6-4 is expected to give Steinmetz help in the rebounding department and Swanson, the tallest man on the team at 6-8, also has shown definite improvement.

The starting lineup for Friday night's tilt with Carleton is expected to have Steinmetz and O'Fallon at forwards and Schultz at one guard spot.

A CLOSE battle is going on for the other starting berths with sophomore Steve Simon dueling with Swanson for the center spot and sophomores Dennis Kirchoff and Brian Bock after the guard post opposite Schultz.

Coach Rusk indicated that no matter who starts, other cagers will undoubtedly see early action.

Also slated for quick duty are Pat Kenney, speedy guard, and Don Brooke, another sophomore, who can fill in at either forward or guard.

Ralph Hartley, a 6-1 junior, is out for varsity basketball for his first season and Rusk expects him to add depth to the squad. He has shown good rebounding potential in drills so far.

Another pleasant surprise for Rusk came about when Tom Callaway reported for drills Monday. Callaway stands 6-2 and Rusk said he will add "definite strength and depth to the squad, particularly in rebounding."

Matmen Open at Carthage With 9 Sophomore Spots

THE LAWRENCE university matmen open their season today in a quadrangular meet at Carthage college in the direction of Coach Ron Roberts, looks for an improvement on last year's 4-3 record.

JUST how much the team improves will depend largely on the sophomores who will be manning as many as nine of the eleven team positions.

The Vikes are placing high hopes on Rich Agness and Jerry Gatske, who finished second and third in the conference, respectively, last year.

Both wrestlers are only juniors and should finish high in the conference tournament.

LAST year's freshman wrestling team went 4-0, and the majority of this year's varsity will be built around it. The Vikes also have two other lettermen back from last year: Dave Moore and Alvin Blomgren.

The tentative schedule for this week's will have Neil Russell at 115 lbs. and Steve Fisher at 123 lbs. Harvey Takemoto will man the 130 class, while Jerry Nightingale will be at 137.

Roger Quindel, 145, Mark Hoskins, 152, and Earl Tryon, 160, will be at the middle weights. The seven wrestlers are all sophomores as is 191 pounder Bill Mittlefehldt.

ALVIN BLOMGREN, the team's only senior, will be at 167, and junior Agness will be at 177. The heavyweight position is still a question mark as of now.

This year the Vikes will have a busy schedule as they take on all nine of the Midwest conference teams for the first time. Besides this they have five non-conference foes scheduled. This week's meet should give some indication as to just how far they will go this year.

Betas Upset Phi Delts For Tie in Volleyball

THE BETAS gained a tie for first place in interquad volleyball this week by upsetting the previously unbeaten Phi Delts. The Beta's only loss came earlier in the season at the hands of the Phis.

In other action Tuesday, the Fijis sewed up third place by whipping the Delts in two straight games. The Taus then defeated the Delts to tie the Sig Eps for fourth place.

THE Phis won the first game in their showdown with the Betas behind the spiking of Steve Bernstein.

The Betas came back, however, to win the second game 15-12 as Chuck Norseng and John Scales led the assault.

The third game was all Betas, featuring Norseng's fine setting to Art Koepelman, Peter House and Tony Walter.

THE score was 15-5. Tony Beadell and Larry Leong rounded out the Beta roster.

The Phi Delts included Bernstein, Rick Kroos, Bob Krohn, Jim Salter, Thad Heatherington, Paul Mead and Steve Simon.

Standings for volleyball read:

HOCKEY TEAM

The Lawrence hockey club will meet Beloit on January 15, and St. Olaf and Carleton on the weekend of February 5.

Sideline Highlights

by RODNEY A. CLARK

In an interview with the Lawrentian this week, head basketball coach Clyde E. Rusk discussed the fortunes of the 1965-66 Lawrence Vikings.

The Midwest conference this year looks tough and very balanced, he felt. Of course, the last couple of years there haven't been any soft touches for us, but this year, there won't be any for anybody. The teams the coaches are talking about most this year are Ripon, Cornell, Carleton, and Beloit.

Ripon and Cornell were both champs last year and lost their big names, but both will be back as strong as last year. Ripon had an excellent freshman team last year and several of those fellows will really help them. They will not have one big name as in past years, said Rusk, but instead will rely on team balance. Cornell lost their top scorer, Grams, but will still be tough. Carleton has all five of its starters back and any fifth place team which returns intact is sure to improve. Beloit was tough last year and they have their three top players back: Niznik, Woolley and their center.

St. Olaf has their two best players back, Grimsrud and Nelson, along with five other lettermen, and that's enough to make them a real threat. Knox was tough last year but they lost a lot in graduation. Coe, Rusk pointed out, lost a couple of good boys and nobody really knows what they've got this year.

Grinnell probably has the best player in the conference in Jeff Frantz. Frantz was the second leading scorer in the conference last year as a junior and will be better. Monmouth finished last last year, but showed signs of real improvement under their new coach. All in all it looks strong all over.

The Lawrence team shapes up very well. We've got Dick Schultz at one guard. Dick was a regular last year and will probably be good this year. Three sophs, Brian Bock, Dennis Kirchoff, and Pat Kenney are all fighting it out for the other guard spot, and all of them will see a lot of action.

Swim Team Splashes In

Four lettermen will form the nucleus for the Lawrence swim team which opens its season competing in the Wisconsin State university-Oshkosh relays Saturday. Coach Gene Davis announced that Fred Nordeen, two-year letter winner, has been elected team captain. Nordeen competes in the freestyle and butterfly events.

Other lettermen are Larry Wilson, diver; John Isaac, breaststroke and Dana Zitek, freestyle. Another letterman, Sandy Johnson, backstroke, may be unable to compete because of a class schedule conflict.

Also out for drills at the present time are Larry Breeding and Court Newman. Coach Davis expects Chase Ferguson and John Firman to report after the holiday vacation period.

Four sophomores who are being counted on heavily for duty are Peter House, individual medley; John Sanders, backstroke; Ken Melnick, breaststroke and Hugh Denison, freestyle.

As freshmen, they snapped a total of 13 records last season, the oldest dating back to 1940 and coach Davis is high on their potential.

The Vikings had a 1-8 record in dual meets last season, but showed improvement late in the campaign and finished fifth in the Midwest conference meet.

"Lack of depth hurt us last year," Davis said, "but we expect our sophomores to pick up that slack this season."

NEWLY ELECTED captain Steve Sedgwick will lead the Viking cross-country team through the 1966 season. The harriers placed sixth in the Midwest conference meet this year and compiled a 5-3 record for the season.
